

Evaluating Synthetic Shopper Personas and Offline Simulation Validity in B2B Procurement

Authors: C. Sun, X. Wang, T. Liu
Published in: Agentic Commerce Research Suite 2026

Abstract

This paper presents a methodology for validating synthetic shopper personas and offline simulation validity in B2B procurement. The study involves creating synthetic personas based on historical data and conducting offline simulations to evaluate their behavior and decision-making processes. The results show that the synthetic personas exhibit high behavioral consistency and predictive accuracy, demonstrating the effectiveness of the methodology in simulating real-world procurement scenarios.